MAIN FEATURE

THE FAVOURITE

Bawdy, bilious, bitchy and hilarious - that's The Favourite, and it sports not just one but three outstanding performances (with Olivia Colman having just won a Golden Globe for hers), alongside a delightfully scabrous script. In this 'mainly true' historical account Colman is Queen Anne, a petulant, volatile, vulnerable child-woman who is happy to leave much of the business of ruling to her dear, dear friend Sara, Duchess of Marlborough (Rachel Weisz). Into this rat's nest of schemes and self-interest lands (literally, in the mud) Sara's cousin, Abigail (Emma Stone), who seizes the chance to endear herself, by whatever means necessary. What follows is an exultant bitchfest of the highest order, riotously played out in frills and furbelows. "Consistently, relentlessly hilarious, Olivia Colman, Rachel Weisz and Emma Stone are on top form in this deranged court comedy."
