MAIN FEATURE

AMERICAN ANIMALS

This is the unbelievable-but-true story of four young men who staged one of the most audacious art heists in US history. Driven by the desire to lead lives out of the ordinary, they plot and plan the perfect robbery - starting by typing "how to plan the perfect heist" into Google. Director Bart Layton has given this a similar hybrid drama/doc treatment as in his Bafta-winning Imposter. It is queasily compelling, as we see how a mania takes hold and drives these middle class young men to ever more audacious lengths. Throughout, the real people offer comments, insight and even remorse as they see their story engagingly brought to life with actors like Barry Keoghan and Evan Peters. "A riveting college-boy crime caper that speeds along on pure movie-movie adrenaline, before U-turning into a sobering reflection on young male privilege and entitlement." Variety ★★★★★ Time Out

YARDIE

"For his directorial debut, Idris Elba has seized upon a book regarded practically as a sacred text among Britain's Jamaican community – Victor Headley's ferocious 1992 page-turner about an angry young Kingstonian's progress through early 80s Hackney. 'Yardie' the film has ambition, confidence and energy..." Guardian
