MAIN FEATURE

WIND RIVER

This sharp, intelligent thriller is what Scandi Noir would look like if set on a Native American reservation. When the frozen body of a young Native American girl is found on reservation land the FBI dispatches rookie agent Elizabeth Olsen to investigate, but she quickly realises that in this untamed environment hunter/tracker Jeremy Renner's experience is of greater value than her knowledge of FBI forensics. "Directorial debut of 'Sicario' screenwriter Taylor Sheridan turns the story of a tracker, a Fed and a dead Native-American girl into a sharp social commentary that knocks you for a loop." Rolling Stone ★★★★★ FT

THE WORK

LEXDOX

This riveting film won the Grand Jury Prize for 'Best Documentary' at SXSW earlier this year, and the Audience Award at Sheffield DocFest. Offering a rare look past the clichés of prison life and its dehumanising tropes, this utterly compelling doc eavesdrops on a potent 4 day therapy workshop for prisoners and civilians, revealing the potential for catharsis, change and meaningful rehabilitation on both sides. "Prisoners engage with members of the public in an intensive therapy session in this extraordinarily moving documentary."

★★★★★ Observer
